9:00-10:15 Hall B2  Panel session “Women executives in building successful business models”

The issue of women's economic empowerment on the way to senior management positions in large companies is becoming more relevant nowadays, along with the need to develop a set of business practices and standards to enhance the contribution of women executives to the sustainable development of an economy. What is the role of policy-makers and business leaders in engaging more women in economic activity? Which specific measures should be undertaken to promote women's leadership in the industry and the public sector? How to forge a global partnership for women's economic empowerment and leadership? What are the prospects for women executives in the era of digitalization and the Fourth Industrial Revolution (Industry 4.0)?
